U. S. ASKS SETTLEMENT OF WAR DEBTS

NINE POWERS TOLD ACTION EXPECTED WITH LITTLE DELAY

France, Largest Debtor, Invited to Send Commission to America to Discuss Funding Proposal.

After more than three years of waiting the United States has advised its European debtors that, in its opinion, the time has come for settlement The nine powers to whom this nation made loans have been acquainted with the American opinion that some move be made by them toward liquidation without further delay.

If paid today the debts of the nine circularized governments to Washington would amount to $7,160,978,695 and the total is increasing daily as the interest column mounts.

Altho officials of this government insist that they hold no desire to press unduly for payments, they feel, and France, Italy, Belgium, Roumania and Czecho Slovakia have beten so advised that the Amefican government is entitled to have funding proposals submitted.

The other principal debtors, Jugo-Slavia, Esthonia, Latvia and Greece, are aware of the Washington view also, but it was not made clear whether diplomatic officials in those countries have been asked to carry settlement suggestions directly to them.

In addition to the diplomatic maneuvers made with respect to the debts generally, France has been informed by Ambassador Herrick that the American government would be sent here to discuss funding proposals.

Inasmuch as France is the largest debtor among those countries whose obligations remain unpaid this phase of the general debt move was regarded as not without some significance. The French debt appeared to be the hub about which a gigantic debt wheel revolved.

Simultaneously with the disclosure of the move to develop action on the part of the foreign nations an expression enamated from official sources that the American government could not permit a distinction to be made between loans made for prosecution of the world war those for post war relief or unpaid bills on the sale of surplus supplies.

This was regarded as an answer to the several statements in European capita's in which mention was made and difference set down between the varous kinds of loans. The American government it was explained cannot recognize any such poltical loans as being different from a loan covering the purchase of war supplies or for use in relief work.

While details of the government remained undisclosed there was evidence that the foreign powers were given tantamount to a circular note reminding tham that the American debt commission was created in February, 1922 for the purpose of negoiating funding settlements and that only five nations had availed themselves of the privileges thereby extended.

The treasury holds demand notes of al. debtor nations save Great Britain, Finland, Poland, Hungary and Lithuania to whom it gave financial assistance A billion and a half dollars in interest has accrued on the demand notes.

Official comment on the steps was rare, but it was clearly indicated that the American government was sincerely anxious to reduce the debt questions to a purely business basis The official view was that the notes held should be converted into definite term obligations with fixed dates, rates and payments, however small the latter might be.

EXHIBITION OF CATTLE AT WASHINGTON

Feeding Results Will be Shown by State Experiment Station June 3.

Wednesday, June 3, will be Live Stock day at Washington Court House in a similar manner as last year. The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station will conduct an exhibition of cattle and hog feeding results shown by 65 cattle and 200 hogs.

The farmers of Pickaway county may well spend a day at Washington Court House June 3, talking over feeds and feeding and listening to men who are specialists in this line.

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau endorses to every farmer in the county this Live Stock day at Washington Court House.

Six thousand people last year attended this meeting. Farmers were well pleased at what was shown and what they learned.

The Experiment Station is at a big expense in conducting these Live Stock days and since the taxpayers pay the bill they should reap the benefits of such a show.

CIRCLEVILLE WON BASEBALL GAME SUNDAY

Defeated London by Score of 11 to 3—Washington Next Sunday.

Notwithstanding the miserable weather of Sunday almost seven hundred loyal baseball fans set and shivered while they watched the Eagle team administer a severe drubbing to the London team which came to Circleville leading the league.

The final score was 11 to 3 and the home team outplayed the visitors in all departments. Dewey pitched a masterly game and had the visitors eating out of his hand until the locals had clubbed in enough runs to put the contest on ice.

Marty Hogan, the well known port side flinger from Columbus started the game for London and was given an enthusiastic reception by the locals who touched him up for six runs in less than four innings after which he retired to center field. Smith, who followed him lasted about two innings and gave up the unequal struggle after he had walked the first three men in the sixth inning. Boyd, a school boy then took up the burden for the visitors and pitched right creditable ball.

The lower end of the Circleville team was responsible for the majority of the runs, the upper hitters all enjoying an off day with the bat. Os Miller had a particularly good day contributing a double and two singles and driving in four runs.

For the visitors, Stucky hit a long double along the right foul line in the eighth which drove across the last two runs for London and he also hit a long one to center on which Pettit made a pretty catch.

Murray, for the visitors made two catches both from the bat off Russ Miller In the sixth he speared one with one hand which would have cleared the fence and in the eighth he took a long foul on the dead run falling after he made the catch. Albanese who was shifted to right field because of the number of left handed hitters with the London team had a field day gathering in five flies.

On next Sunday the Washington team will be in Circleville and should fill the park to capacity. Circleville played the opening game at Washington two weeks ago and were lucky to get away with a tie game Both teams are determined to win this game if possible and a real struggle can be expected.

Two base hits, O. Miller, Targee, Stuckey; stolen bases, Targee, Sutters sacrifice hits; R. Miller, Dewey, Thompson, Johnson; passed ball Turner; struck out by Dewey, 8, Hogan 1 Gerhart 1, Boyd 1. Umpire Friend.

U. S. TO BUILD PRISON FOR CRIMINAL WOMEN

Provide for Work in Fields Nearly All Year.

Washington.—For the first time in the United States there is to be a federal prison for women—that is, if congress approves the report of a committee composed of attorney general, secretary of the interior and secretary of labor, and makes an appropriation for it. It is to be known as the Federal Industrial Institute for Women—the designation "prison" being in growing disfavor.

About twenty sites were offered, but Alderson, W. Va., was the final selection and a report to this effect was made to congress.

Alderson appears to have many advantages over other sites submitted, not the least perhaps being that the citizens of this and other villages in Monroe, Greenbrier and adjoining counties subscribed $30,000 to pay for approximately 200 acres of land to be offered free to the government. A quotation of $45,000 has been made for an additional 300 acres. At that the government would be getting 500 acres of suitable land at a much lower figure than any of the other localities offer.

Alderson is on the main line of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, which facilitates the transportation of inmates; it is on the Greenbrier river, which insures an adequate supply of pure water for all purposes and also on the Atlantic and Pacific highway, which connects with the Midland trail, the main highway from Washington to the Middle West and the South.

Women to Do Farm Work.

The altitude is 1,800 feet and the climate and soil conditions are such that it would be possible for the women to work the ground during most of the year. This is a distinct advantage, since it has been proved that outdoor work and exercise are two of the greatest factors in rehabilitating the woman prisoner.

The 1,600 or so inhabitants of Alderson seem to be of a high moral and religious character. Persons who went to investigate said that there appeared to be no extensive use of alcohol. The town is far enough away from any large city to minimize dope smuggling into the institution and to eliminate to a great extent the possibility of escape.

Another point in its favor is that it is fairly near the estimated center of federal female criminal population, which is said to be within a radius of a hundred miles of Ironton, Ohio. The fact that the center of federal female criminal population is in the East is somewhat misleading. It may be explained partly by the fact that the District of Columbia is largely responsible for this. The district has only federal courts and accordingly any offense against the law must be tried in these courts and the sentenced law-breaker automatically becomes a federal prisoner. It is estimated that about 20 per cent of the federal female criminal population of the nation is in the District of Columbia. This, however, does not of necessity mean that Washington is a more dangerous or wicked place to live than any other.

Not only Alderson but West Virginia as a whole has been tremendously interested in having this industrial institution for women located within its bounds. The governor appointed a commission to help get the location and raise funds to purchase the site.

Women Now Sent to Jails.

At the present time women who are offenders against the federal laws must be sent to state or county institutions—boarded out, as it were. And it is said that these jails or prisons are so crowded that often a new inmate cannot be received until one is dismissed. This often results in a prisoner getting a suspended sentence for the excellent reason that there is no place for the judge to send her.

Persons making a study of prison conditions say that one or two years in a county jail has a bad effect upon a woman. A federal institution for woman delinquents is a very real and immediate necessity.

Out of the 20 proffered sites Alderson had only two real competitors—Delphi, Ind., and Markleton, Pa. While Delphi appeared anxious to have the proposed penal institution it did not offer any free ground. In fact, the price of the proposed site was set at from $125 to $175 an acre. Also, while it was nearer the geographical center of the United States than either Alderson or Markleton, it was considerably west of the center of federal female criminal population.

Sites were offered in Maryland, Virginia, Colorado, Texas, Arizona and in fact in almost all sections of the country. These were discarded for various reasons. Some were too small; one was composed entirely of woodland, and women are physically unable to clear timber. Others were too difficult of access, and one in the Southwest was so situated that it would have been necessary for the institution to purchase its water supply.

Alderson seemed to the committee to be the logical location. Whether congress agrees remains to be seen.

Common Fabrics; How They Get Their Names

Every one knows what a blanket is, but how many know that it got its name from Thomas Blanket, a famous clothier, who made blankets in England about the year 1840?

And did you know that shawls first were made for floor coverings? Sala is the Sanskrit word for floor, and that is where we get the name shawl.

Bandanna is from the Indian word bandanna, meaning to bind or tie. You see, the cloth is tied into knots when dipped into the dye, and this is what gives the clouded effect seen in the original bandanna handkerchief.

Foulard was originally made for handkerchiefs only, and the name is French for "silk handkerchiefs."

We have all heard the masculine expression "to go down into his jeans" when what is meant is that he produces the money. Now, the word "jeans" has a still closer connection with money. It is the name for a Genoese coin, and in selling cloth, it was customary to say, "So much for one jean." That is how the name came to be applied to the familiar coarse woolen fabric used for men's clothing.

Momie, or mummy, a plain weave of flaxen or linen yarn, was originally the winding sheet or shroud of Egyptian mummified dead.

Tweed, that familiar, rough, unfinished fabric of cotton and wool, usually made of yarns of two or more shades, is so called because it was originally the product of weavers on the banks of the river Tweed in Scotland.

Many women have wondered just what panne velvet really meant. The word "panne" is simply the French word for plush. And the name is applied to a wide range of satin-faced velvets or silks that show a high luster which has been produced by pressure.

Pique is French for "quilting." Originally it was applied to a cloth woven in diamond-shaped designs to imitate quilting. When used to designate our familiar corded cloth the name is really a misnomer. Chenille is French for "caterpillar," so that when applied to the well-known cloth with the fuzzy, fluffy face, the name is most appropriate. Chenille is used sometimes for dress goods, but more generally for curtains and table throws.

Pink Is Favorite Color for Dainty Dance Frock

At the moment there is no more fashionable or popular color than pink in any one of its varied tones, from the delicate tint like the flush of an apple blossom to that deep intense color seen in the afterglow of an Alpine sunset. In between, there are any number of lovely shades, and when several are put together the effect is even smarter and more becoming.

One of the loveliest dance frocks is of pale pink ribbon with touches of silver ribbon on the full wide skirt and a bit of dark blue for contrast in the flower placed to emphasize the long waist line of the tight little bodice.

Another is of tulle layers, shading from pale pink to the deep fuchsia tone. There is a petticoat of silver lace and a narrow edge of lace on the under slip of pink satin chiffon. Taffeta ribbon in a deep fuchsia tone is used for the sash.

Women's Gloves

A new idea has been developed in London in gloves for women's wear. They are made of artificial silk with invisible finger tips. The fabric tapers off into invisibility at the finger tips, displaying in a subtle way the natural fingers. How this is accomplished is not explained.

Vast Electrical Industry

To few men as it has been to Edison, who celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday recently, has it been granted to see the industry in which they began as pioneers, develop into one of the greatest of all times. Today the investment in electric public utilities alone is second only to that of the steam railroads of the country. Even a Dante would find it difficult to picture the infernal cost that would ensue were all the electric light and power companies, electric railways and the telephone and telegraph companies suddenly to be withdrawn from their places in the economic structure of the nation.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Paris Laughs at Threats to Move Fashion Center

Paris. — A dispatch has reached Paris from London which has served as a challenge to all the "couturiers" of the French city. It is to the effect that London is about to wrest from its rival the coveted title of "capital of fashion," and that a new English organization, with a capital of 8,700,000 francs, has been organized with this end in view.

Naturally the French answer is "Impossible," for at Paris, say the arbiters of style, "La mode est un art."

Even though the responsible "artists" are attracted to other countries, the French capital is in no danger, the French say. These emigres are powerless abroad, they all wish to return, they continue, and the secret is "Paris and fashion are one. It is a question of air, of atmosphere, of rivalry, of background. That is all there is to it."

So Paris is not worried over British threats or American threats to her supremacy in the world of fashion. The Rue de la Paix still maintains a proud disdain for the rest of the world. Only one thing Paris asks, and that is a clear understanding that "to copy is to steal." This is becoming a sore point which touches not the pride of the French, but their pocketbooks.

CHILLICOTHE HIGH SCHOOL WAS WINNER

Washington Second, Circleville Third and Frankfort Fourth in Field Meet.

Before a relatively small crowd, caused by the threat of rain, Chillicothe high school won the track and field meet held at the high school athletic field Saturday afternoon, altho the other teams from Weshington C. H., Frankfort and Circleville high schools furnished the stiffest kind of opposition.

Chillicothe took the lead in the first event the hundred yard dash, when Elsass a speedy young lad, won in 10 35 seconds. This time is remarkable for a high school event and would perhaps, win from a lot of university competitors.

From the side lines, it appeared that Elsass jumped the gun, but the starter signalled a true start. Dellinger, of Washington C. H., finished second and Heiskell and McCrady, of Circleville, finished third and fourth.

The next event, the pole vault, was won by Boylan, of Washington, C. H., who went aloft 9 feet and 7 inches. Boylan took the place of the Washington regular vaulter, "Red" Sheridan, who was injured at Chillicothe a week before, and made Washington initial first. Bell, of Circleville, was second, and Brown, of Frankfort, was third. C. Brown of Frankfort; Peters, of Circleville, and Gartner and Spetnagle, of Chillicothe, were tied for the fourth position.

The shotput was won by Johnson, of Washington with a distance of 37 feet and 7 1-2 inches. Dellinger, of Washington was second; Manley, of Chillicothe, was third, and Dearth, of Circleville was fourth.

By winning this event, Washigton took the lead and seemed in a fair way to win the meet.

R. Brown, of little Frankfort high, got off to a commanding lead in the 440 yard dash and was never in danger Only a lack of competition kept him from bettering his time of 55 seconds. Boylan, of Washington, was second; Melvin, of Chillicothe, was third, and Jones of Circleville was fourth Brown served notice by winning the 440 that he was a force to be reckoned with in the 220 and 880 yard events.

The high jump was won by Johnson, of Washington, who jumped 5 feet and 1-2 inch Melvin, of Chillicothe, was second Due to a tie, there was no third so White, of Chillicothe, and C. Brown divided honors for fourth

The discus throw was gathered in by Manley of Chillicothe, who threw it 100 feet and 9 inches. Bell, of Circleville, was second; Johnson, of Washington, was third and Hilty, of Chillicothe, was fourth.

In the 220 yard dash, Elsass, of Chillicothe, showed his winning of the 100 yard dash was no fluke, by winning in 24 3-5 seconds Heiskell, of Circleville, was second; Dellinger, of Washington, was third, and McCrady, of Circleville, was fourth.

Elsass of Chillicothe, and R. Brown, of Frankfort, tied the broad jump at 19 feet and 1 1-2 inches. Dellinger, of Washington, got third place, and White, of Chillicothe, was fourth

The half mile was won by Schneider, of Chillicothe; R. Brown, of Frankfort, again finishing second; Sheppard, of Washington third, and Dearth, of Circleville, fourth. Tinme, 2:14 4-5.

The relay, which did not count in the final score, was won by the Circleville team composed of Cameron and May. The Frankfort team, Bell and Jones, got away to a bad start, but finished strong Time, 2:15 4-5.

The final score was: Chillicothe, 23 1-2; Washington, 32; Circleville, 18 3-4; Frankfort, 14 3-4.

Announcer, Hanley, O. S. U.; starter, Burdette, Wittenberg.

Individual high scores: Elsass, 14 points; second, Johnson, 12.

OLD DOBBIN

Has Been Practically Banned From Euclid Avenue, In Cleveland.

Cleveland, May 16.—(U. P.)—Old Dobbin has sung his swan song in Euclid Avenue, historic old street here.

The horse once was supreme in this ancient thoroughfare, which began as the "Main street" of a small town and later became "Millionaire's Row" in a great city.

Charles Kennedy's history of Cleveland, tells of the fine horses that stepped so proudly along Euclid Avenue 25 years ago.

In these days there were annual horse shows with parades down the avenue. The horse show was one of the biggest events of the year.

Ten years ago Dobbin began to slip when the street car companies won a bitter fight to put down tracks in Euclid Avenue along "Millionaire's Row."

Now Traffic Commissioner Donahue has practically barred horses from the old street by banning all "slow moving vehicles."

Dobbin bows before speed.

Contradictory

Not far off the boulevard between Los Angeles and San Diego are some quaint towns and one of them has a unique garage. At one time it was a church, but now a double door has been cut through the side and the vestibute at the front is used for an office. But the blend of old and new affords a laugh to every traveler who stops there, for over the door, weather-beaten but still readable, is a scriptural quotation that goes: "Behold, I have set before you an open door." And on the panel below the garage man has inscribed in red paint, "Positively no admittance."

AMUSEMENTS

Cecil B. De Mille's latest Paramount production, "The Golden Bed," which will be the feature of the Met tonight is a story of Admah ("Candy") Holtz risen to fortune from "poor white trash."

"Candy" Holtz is infatuated with Flora Lee Peake, alluring beauty and hope of a family which is decaying because of its preference for a great name rather than useful toil.

Margaret Peake, equally arrogant at first, learns the emptiness of unearned wealth and high social position and works for the regeneration of Admah after the young fellow is brought to ruin by a sister who accepts luxury from a husband while sneering and flirting behind his back.

As Flora Lee and Admah, Lillian Rich, De Mille's new "find" and the popular Rod La Rocque have two characters which book reviewers called "outstanding pen portraits," following publication of Wallace Irwin's novel which Jeanie Macpherson adapted for the screen. As Margaret, Vera Reynolds, whom De Mille introduced to the picture going public in "Feet of Clay," has a sympathetic role.

Famous names bristle in the cast including Warner Baxter, Theodore Kosloff, Julia Faye, Henry Walthall, Robert Cain and Robert Edeson.

A typical De Mille spectacle in the production is a gorgeous "candy ball" a colorful setting for the crash and ruin of Admah Holtz. Thrills among the Alpine glaciers, an elaborate "De Mille wedding" and other effects set off the production.

"The Golden Bed" is a fine de Mille social satire which for colorful drama bids fair to equal the success of such triumphs as "Manslaughter," "Feet of Clay" and "The Ten Commoandments." He takes a beautiful young girl and routes her thru four love affairs as only he can do it. He takes a boy from nothing and makes him a money power in his town.

Here's the finest De Mille production to date!

WHITE DIARRHEA.

Save Them

Ashville, Ohio, R. F. D. 1, May 7, 1924.

Mr. Fickardt:—

I bought 400 chicks. Very soon the chicks began to die of WHITE DIARRHEA. My chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250 in two weeks.

At that time I had ten sick chicks and I really considered them as good as dead. I began to use your remedy with all my chicks, both well and sick. Eight of the sick chicks recovered and I have not lost any others since I began the use of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops over a month ago.

I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course, if it had not been for the fact that those that were sick recovered; but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that your remedy cured them.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union-Herald:—Miss Verna Delle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hosler was born in Circleville, Ohio, March 5, 1902.

She attended the Circleville public schools and while a junior in the high school was compelled to discontinue school work owing to the condition of her mother, who is a patient at Athens State hospital. She sacrificed her schooling to take care of the home and enabled her younger sister to finish school.

She was very faithful in her home duties up until a little over a year ago when on April 3, 1924, she was forced by her condition to enter Grant hospital, Columbus, where she remained seven weeks for treatment for goiter and at the expiration of that time returned home. She remained at home until January 21, 1925, upon which date she again returned for treatment. She remained another seven weeks and three days undergoing more treatments, always a cheerful and patient sufferer. She left the hospital for the second time, but was again forced to return, April 13. Her condition at that time was very much improved. An operation was performed on Monday, May 11 at 10:30 a. m., and she died the following night at 8:10 o'clock. She leaves to mourn their loss her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hosler, one brother, Harry R. Hosler and one sister, Dorothy R. Hosler and many relatives and friends.

LACE TRIMMED LINGERIE IS COMING BACK

Feminine Frills and Ruffles in Gorgeous Colors Will be Popular.

Do you remember "way back when you were a little girl and wore three ruffled lace, pettcoats and lace trimmed lingerie? Even your best Sunday dress, stiffly starched and frilled, sometimes had as much as twenty yards of lace for trimming.

If you would be in the latest style, go to the attic and look over your old dress relics and then fashion your newest garments after the same idea. For lace is coming back in fashion in all its glory, according to a fashion authority at Chicago.

"Not only lace trimmings, lace garters and entire gowns of lace, but lace counterpanes, lace trimmed pillow cases and bed sheets are coming back in style," said this coutouriere.

"Now that mannish styles have run their course and women are adopting feminine frills and ruffles again, there is once more a decided tendency toward the use of laces as trimmings. The smart woman may wear lace lavishly—from lace trimmings of all kind to entire frocks of Zion lace which is a favorite material this season. These Zion laces are shown in such a gorgeous variety of colors that they have become popular for both the matron and debutarte alike.

"Much interest is centered upon lace flouncings which fashion entire skirts. When worn with a tight bodice waist, a quaint, simple effect is achieved."

JAPANESE INVASION ACTIVITIES COOLING

"Much Adoo About Nothing"—Japs Will Work, Americans Don't Like To.

Willard, May 15.—(U. P.)—Today, the day set for the much heralded "Japanese invasion" of Ohio celery lands hereabouts, saw not a single Nipponese "invader" within a radius of many miles.

H. O. Parsons, farm manager, advanced the date of their arrival at least two weeks. "They have not even left California yet but I am expecting every day to hear they have started for Ohio," said Parsons.

The Japanese feature of his labor problem on the muck land has been much overdrawn, Parsons said.

"There will be no Japanese invasion," he explained. "I am planning to bring not more than 25 families here to live on 1,500 of our 4,000 acres.

"The first arrivals will be three families, whom I expect late this month or early in June. The others will come later."

Activities of civic organizations against the so-called invasion have cooled down considerably, according to Parsons.

The Message of the Violets

By CECELIA FARWELL

WE WERE wrapped loosely in soft tissue and laid in a big white box. It was damp and dark and cool in the box, like the night-time when we nestled down under our big green leaves and went to sleep under the stars.

When the box was opened I heard a soft voice exclaim, "Oh! Violets!" and we were gathered up, so gently that not a petal was crushed, and pressed against a girl's face.

Something damp fell on one of my petals—tears—though I heard a soft, happy laugh. She laid us down ever so carefully and picked up a little square of stiff paper, giving a quick little gasp, "Oh!" There was a new note in it. She sat down by the table and was very still for a long time, only her hand touching us lightly, lovingly. My tiny violet heart thrilled at her caress, though I did not understand.

Then, slowly, hesitatingly, she reached toward the telephone that stood on the table behind our box, but drew it back quickly. I wondered. She leaned over us and I felt her lips touch me gently; it was as if she whispered into my ear, "Why not?" She took up the instrument, but her voice trembled as she called a number.

We all kept very still, not even a rustle among us, but we sent out our sweet perfume to her, for somehow, we knew that she needed us. We could hear every word when a man's voice answered.

"Hello."

"Mr. Graham?" The soft voice did not tremble now.

"Hello—what—why—it is Elizabeth!" There was amazement and joy in the tones.

"Yes. I—I wanted to—to thank you for the violets."

"To thank me—Elizabeth—I don't understand."

"They came—addressed to me, and your card. I wanted to—to thank you, that was all."

Then the man said a very strange thing. We heard him plainly, and so did Elizabeth, but instead of putting that instrument down in a hurry, so that she could not hear another word, she just held part of it close against her shoulder, so that no sound could go into it, and laughed. What the man had said was: "Well, I'll be d——d!"

Then he added quickly, and I didn't like the tone of it, for it sounded jealous, and from what Elizabeth had said I did not think that he had any right to be jealous: "Say, Elizabeth, are you in the habit of getting flowers from Lister's?"

"No. I have never had any from there before."

"Oh—I thought maybe they had put my card in the wrong box."

"Then they were not for me?" Her voice sounded a little tired.

"No—yes—wait a moment, Elizabeth—don't hang up.

"Of course it was a mistake—I wouldn't have dared. But—listen, Elizabeth—of—I can't tell you by telephone—may I come up and tell you how it happened?"

His voice was eager, but Elizabeth's sounded just like a frosty morning: "I don't think that is necessary. It was a mistake, I understand."

After a long time the door opened and a young man came in—a tall young man, with gray eyes that smile. He wasn't the least handsome, just big—but his eyes made up for everything.

Elizabeth stood very still by the table. He came over and laid his hand on hers, which rested lightly on us, but she slipped hers from under it. He gathered some of us up in his hands, tenderly, and held us out to her, but she shook her head, and said, sadly: "They are not for me."

He laid us back carefully, and said slowly: "It is eight months since I have sent you violets, Elizabeth—but I have—wanted to—every day.

"This morning I stopped in at Campbell's. I had promised—Margie—some roses. As I waited for the man I remembered that I had always sent you violets from Campbell's and, somehow, I didn't want to—send—flowers to any one else—from there. So I went on—to Lister's. I was thinking of you, you see, and the violets.

"I didn't intend to order violets—but I did. I remembered, after I went out. The man had looked at me sort of surprised when I said to him, 'You will send them right up?' and he answered, 'They will be delivered immediately.' I didn't know that I had written a downtown address. My heart had written it for me. So, you see, dear, they are for you."

He gathered some of us into his hands again and held them out to her. This time she took them in both hands.

And when he saw that there were tears in her eyes he took her into his arms.

After a long moment she said in a sort of gasping whisper: "But Margie?"

He laughed happily. "Oh, Margie will be all right. She doesn't really want me—she just wanted the last new man—I was it! She'll probably break the engagement because I did not send those roses!"

Then he gathered up a double-handful of violets and lifted them above her head, letting them fall in a shower over her brown hair. But she gathered up every one, carefully, exclaiming: "Oh, my precious flowers—my dear little violets that have brought me such happiness. I must get some water for them—I want them to live forever!"

Fertile Soil Is a Real Treasure

English Scientist Emphasizes Importance of Organic Matter.

A fertile soil is to the farmer what a mine rich in ores is to the mine operator, but there the comparison must end, for the good farmer never depletes the fertility of his soil.

"But what is a fertile soil?" asks A. W. Blair, soil chemist of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station.

Soil Fertility Defined.

"Definitions will vary according to the viewpoint of those giving them. A definition given by the noted English scientist, Sir Henry Gilbert, in a lecture on 'Agricultural Investigations,' delivered at Rutgers college forty years ago last October, is at least full of meaning. He said: 'The history of agriculture throughout the world, so far as we know it, clearly shows that a fertile soil is one which has accumulated within it the residue of ages of previous vegetation, and that it becomes infertile as this residue is exhausted; and enormous as are the accumulations in the prairie lands of the American continent, it is still desirable to postpone rather than to accelerate the time of their exhaustion.'

Statement by English Expert.

"Another of England's distinguished scientists, Sir John Russell, while on a visit to the New Jersey experiment station in October, 1924, made this significant statement: 'The English farmer must get 30 bushels of wheat and about 300 bushels of potatoes to the acre or he loses money.'

"This definition is given in terms of the soil's crop-producing power, but the two definitions are not far apart in actual meaning, since a soil that is deficient in organic matter—the accumulated residue of ages of vegetation mentioned by Doctor Gilbert—will not produce 30 bushels of wheat or 300 bushels of potatoes to the acre.

"In one of his lectures in this country, Doctor Russell further emphasized the importance of a supply of organic matter as follows: 'One of the great needs of agriculture in America, as I see it, is a more general practice of saving and applying barnyard manure, the using of lime to sweeten the soil, so that leguminous crops may be grown, and the following of proper crop rotations. The English farmer was forced to adopt this practice long ago, because of the limited acreage of farm lands.'

"The question of maintaining the supply of organic matter in the soil is becoming more serious every year. There is yet much room for improvement in methods of handling and using farm manure, and in the growing of green manure crops. American farmers must sooner or later adopt the practices which long ago proved so successful in Europe."

Cocklebur Plants Will Cause Serious Injury

A series of experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture has shown that cocklebur plants are poisonous to swine, cattle, sheep, and chickens. Some have contended that deaths due to cocklebur were caused by mechanical action of the burs on the tender organs of the animals rather than to poisonous qualities of the plant.

After extended experiments with the animals mentioned above, the department concludes that while the burs may produce some mechanical injury and while the seeds are very poisonous, stock poisoning is caused by feeding on the very young plants before the development of true leaves. If there is a shortage of good forage and animals find the young plants, they may easily eat enough to cause serious results.

Feeding milk to pigs immediately after they have eaten cocklebur has proved beneficial, probably because of the fat content. Successful results may be expected also, when such oils and fats as bacon grease, lard and linseed oil are used as remedies, according to experts.

Asparagus One of Most Dependable Vegetables

Remember that asparagus is one of the most dependable and nutritious vegetables that we have, and one of the earliest to be ready for use in the spring. The Mary Washington variety is considered the best for both home use and commercial purposes. Set the crowns in the garden in rows four feet apart and two feet apart in the row. A good crop will be produced.

Prepare hills for melons, cucumbers and squash now. Mix the manure well with soil after adding a handful of acid phosphate and kainit, but do not plant outdoors until apple blossoms open. A few for very early use may be started in strawberry boxes placed in botbeds.

Good Garden Rotation

It is quite likely that, when once the garden plot has been located, it will not be changed for a number of years. In order to provide for proper rotation, a certain portion should be seeded to clover each year. It is not advisable from the standpoints of maintaining soil fertility, and controlling insects and plant diseases that any one crop be planted twice in succession in the same place. By referring each year to the plan of the preceding year, these changes may be provided for.

Buick Loops Globe in Record Run

A Buick car, which departed unheralded from New York City last December to be driven from one Buick dealer to another in a trip around the world, is nearing the end of its long journey.

The car, a Standard Six Touring model, is strictly "on its own," being unaccompanied by mechanics or special drivers. When it returns to New York City the machine will have been handled by approximately 350 different drivers.

The last difficult leg of the trip has been completed, a long run over the questionable roads across the continent of Australia. The car is now enroute to New Zealand and Honolulu, from whence it will be shipped to San Francisco and driven across the United States through Detroit and Flint to New York.

The trip around the world was conceived to demonstrate that a Buick will travel to the remote corners of the earth and that on such a journey it is always safeguarded by service facilities.

The globe-encircling car has made its trip without faltering. Driven from dealer to dealer by dealers' representatives only, it has demonstrated Buick's ability to withstand the "man-handling" from hundreds of drivers of various nationalities and degrees of skill.

After coming from the regular assembly line in the factory at Flint, Mich., it was equipped with four spare tires and a shovel. Supplementary tanks on the running boards provide oil, gasoline and water for the long runs over deserts and other uninhabited regions.

After being boxed and sent to New York City it was shipped across the Atlantic to Liverpool, where its land journey started on December 21, 1924. The car was passed from dealer to dealer enroute to London.

It then was shipped from London to Amsterdam. With frequent changes of drivers it passed south through Europe, visiting Brussels and Paris and finally reaching the Mediterranean at Marseilles, France.

On January 20, it was placed on a steamer bound for Port Said, Egypt. From there it was driven south to Cairo. Then the route swung "east of Suez," where the real test began. Through Palestine and the biblical country, the car proceeded to Beirut. On February 5, it left there for Damascus and Bagdad, accompanying one of the desert convoys of the Nairn Transport Company, which incidentally uses Buicks in its desert fleet.

The Syrian desert was crossed without difficulty. The Buick distributor in Beirut, however, gives some idea of the country traversed, in the following letter excerpt:

"The road was terrible in places, being nothing more than a cart track strewn with large boulders. In the run over the Lebanon Mountains the car climbed to a height of more than a mile. After spending the night at Damascus, the 540-mile run to Bagdad was made at an average speed of 35 miles an hour."

The Mesopotamian distributors took the Buick at Bagdad and drove it to Basra on the Persian gulf, from whence it was sent to Bombay, India. From there it was driven over indifferent trail-roads across India to Agra, and finally Calcutta.

It then went to Ceylon, where the Buick distributors drove it for three days before sending it to Perth, on the southwest coast of Australia, where it arrived April 1. The desert waste of southern Australia between Perth and Adelaide was regarded as the most difficult part of the trip. The distance is something more than halfway across the United States. This long stretch of bad going was negotiated successfully, as was the shorter journey from Adelaide to Melbourne, near the southeast end of the continent. The car since was driven to Albury and then to Sydney, from which point it was shipped to New Zealand.

After completion of the globe journey it is planned to preserve the car as an object of historical interest.

Three "B's" For Babies Suggested As Perfection's Key In Advice To Millions Of Young Mothers

Three "B's" for babies was the feature of a recent general communication to mothers from Dr. J. E. Pollard, of Newark, N. J. Dr. Pollard is associate medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company and his suggestions were prepared with the object of being helpful to mothers in the millions of households where his company has policyholders.

Breast feeding is his first "B." A breast-fed baby has a much better chance of surviving the ailments of infancy than has a baby fed on the bottle, says Dr. Pollard. Nature's way is the best, he maintains, and wherever it is possible for the mother to nurse the child at the breast it should be done, even though it is necessary to supplement the breastfeeding with food prepared under the supervision of the family physician. And wherever it is impossible for the baby to be breast-fed, because of lack of milk or for other reasons, then it should be fed on a formula of certified milk prescribed by an experienced physician.

Bathing, frequent and all-over, is Dr. Pollard's second "B." Since cleanliness is admittedly next to godliness it is hardly necessary to give reasons for this dictum, he says. It not only makes for a more healthy baby, but makes the baby more welcome wherever it goes. Twice a day is not too often.

Bright sunshine is the final "B." Not only should the baby be taken for frequent and prolonged airings—most modern mothers have come to believe thoroughly in keeping the baby outdoors—but the entire body should be exposed to the sunlight frequently, as an aid in the prevention of rickets and other infantile troubles. Such exposure to sunlight, he warns, should be made under proper conditions so that the baby may not contract a cold or suffer from sunburn. But sunbathing should be a part of the baby's routine just as is the bath in the tub.

CORN COSTS LESS IN LARGER FIELDS

Farmers In Greene and Medina Counties Show Why Big Cultivators Pay.

Use a 20-acre instead of a 10-acre field for raising corn, and you cut the cost of producing a bushel by 18 per cent.

Records kept by Greene and Medina county farmers, analyzed by rural economists at the Ohio State University show this. One of the economists, John F. Dowler, explains it this way:

"Labor costs are 53 per cent of the total cost of planting corn," says Mr. Dowler. "The labor cost is even more than the combined cost of commercial fertilizer, manure, seed, equipment or machinery charges, taxes and interest in the land, a summary of the farm records show.

"By having fields of more than 20 acres instead of less than 10, a farmer can cut off in one slice 34 per cent of his man and horse labor cost, or 18 per cent of the cost of producing corn.

"In fields averaging 30 acres, according to the records, the plowman turned under eight and a quarter acres in the time required to plow five acres in a six-acre field. When three horses and the same sized plow were used in both the large and small fields, plowmen gained a half acre a day in fields of 20 acres or more.

"In larger units machinery and teams can be used to better advantage," the economist points out. "By using three horses and a two-row cultivator the owners of big fields cultivated about 90 per cent more corn in a day than those who used two horses and a one-row cultivator."

CATHCART'S CONFESSION

"That is my story," says the Countess of Cathcart in comfessing her relations with Lord Craven, in the June Hearst's International - Cosmopolitan. "I have told it frankly, knowing quite well in the face of the lurid reports that have appeared in the press both in England and America that many will disbelieve.

"My rebellious attitude has not been weakened by repentance. Doors that were thrown open to the wife of the Earl of Carthcart are now closed to me. I cannot appear at Court. People who at one time were glad enough to accept my hospitality now cut me openly.

"What the future holds I do not know. It may be that sometime my lover will be free to marry me, and then society will be ready to welcome me back. But having discovered how much of the life it lives is tinsel and pinchbeck, shall I be ready to welcome society? I wonder."—Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

OPERATION MAKES "TOMBOY" NORMAL

Disorder of Ductless Glands Found to Be Cause.

Washington.—How a beautiful girl took on masculine characteristics as a result of a disorder of her ductless glands and then had her feminine traits restored by surgery was described here by Dr. John J. Abel, professor at Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore.

Until the girl was twenty-four her family and the most eminent physicians of England were mystified by her strange masculine traits.

It was then discovered that she was suffering from a tumor on one of her adrenal glands.

When the tumor was removed by a delicate operation, the girl's feminine traits began to reappear within thirty-six days. In three years she had changed back again to a normal woman.

The adrenal glands, it was explained, are a pair of small ductless bodies of unknown function.

In a paper called "Some Recent Advances in Our Knowledge of the Ductless Glands," Doctor Abel discussed why a stimulus of the adrenal glands will shoot substance into the blood that will make one's hair stand on end.

Some scientific investigators, he said, contend that this substance mobilizes the sugar in the human system to furnish extra energy in time of danger for fight or flight.

Excessive secretions in the pituitary gland, a two-lobed, ductless gland forming an integral part of the brain, may result in a complete change in one's appearance within a dozen years by producing large hands or feet or large features, the doctor said. A shortage of the same secretions, he said, makes men fat.

Centennial Clock Will Tell Time to Iowans

Albany.—The tower clock which was awarded first prize at the Centennial exposition at Philadelphia in 1876 has found a permanent home in the new campanile being erected on the campus of the State Teachers' college at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

The clock, built by the late Charles Fasoldt of this city, has been in the possession of the Fasoldt family until the present time. A few weeks ago Dudley Fasoldt, grandson of the builder and owner of the timepiece, announced he would give it to the institution offering the best home and care for it. More than 1,000 applications were received within a week after Mr. Fasoldt's offer had been published. They came from churches, colleges, municipalities and commercial organizations.

Officials of the State Teachers' college at Cedar Falls have guaranteed that the clock will have the best of care by the institution's own mechanics and electricians.

The campanile in which it is to be installed is located on high ground and the dial will be visible for miles

The clock, in its half century of existence, has shown a maximum variation of less than ten seconds a year from solar time.
